

ABSTRACT

5 A system for predetermining the operating threshold of a device surveying the radial deformation state of a tire comprises means capable of regulating the push due to the pressure of the tire on a closing mechanism and members capable of regulating the equilibrating counter push of the thrust of Belleville washers, helical springs and axially compressed seals.